Decorative artisans do a full-house makeoverBy Experienced EditorSomewhat dated now (published in 2007 so doesn't have the latest products trends) but still fascinating for browsing, picking up decorator ideas, and simply enjoying the gorgeous work done by these creative designers.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Pamela W Seitzgreat1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Loved the bookBy Tana MillsLoved the ideas in this book. I'm a faux painter and was inspired by the photographs in the book.

The House that Faux Built is a unique project-turned-book with a dual purpose: To raise money for the New Orleans Habitat House that Faux Built in support of Katrina Victims To showcase the very latest in painting and plaster home makeover techniques. The Artist s Version of We are the World --More than 100 top artists from across the U.S. and Europe volunteered to help. Together they transformed the rooms of a 1940s colonial in Metro DC and an old Chicago church into unique works of art. This new book captures the project in over 500 full color photos and is being snapped up by homeowners, D-I-Y ers, realtors and designers eager to see the latest in faux and home transformations. Readers will learn home makeover solutions including:15 tricks to make a small room look larger, 5 secrets to make ceilings appear higher, 5 ways to transform cement floors new techniques for wood floors, 3 Inexpensive methods to customize existing cabinets and appliances, 3 ways to make old brick, tile, and counter tops look like stone. Dozens of ideas and products that did not exist even a year ago

This is a great resource for ideas and inspiration for DIY homeowners and artists. An invaluable resource section provides product and contact information for interiors and homeowners. --Jane Koeler, Faux Effects World, Vol.

5Must See, Painted House of the Year. --Mara Bragg, Paint Magic Magazine, Issue #75
About the Author
Award-winning artist, teacher and philanthropist, Adrienne van Dooren initiated and chaired the House That Faux Built project to raise money for charity and to showcase the incredible versatility of faux. Prior to taking on this project, Adrienne trained under master artisans in both the US and Europe. She has won numerous prestigious awards, including the Faux-cademy Platinum Trophy, LID Instructor Award, and the International Artist Exchange s Top Award. Adrienne s work has been featured in galleries, on television, and in magazines throughout the United States. Retired from U.S. military service, Adrienne is able to work full-time for charitable projects. She is in the process of forming a non-profit, Artists4Others, to encourage future cooperative projects in support of Habitat, Hospice and Animal Rescue.
