Good place to start when building on for your in-laws3 of 6 people found the following review helpful. Wouldn't waste your moneyBy T. KnechtgesThis is a lame attempt to publish a book that has little value when you are considering an in-law suite. Almost all of the "useful tips" are common sense, and reasons why most people are thinking about adding an in-law suite in the first place. I was very disappointed with this books' quality. There is little to this, and the floor plans aren't too creative, at best. Keep searching until you find a better source - I wouldn't waste more than a couple of bucks on a book of this quality.5 of 5 people found the following review helpful. It is helpful!By BeckyI bought a total of 18 magazines with floor plans at $3 each and none of them were any good. I bought the book The In-law Suite Book - Floor Plans and More and found a perfect floor plan that I am having built. The ideas in the book were full of COMMON SENSE recommendations - That is what is needed. This book helped me and I think it is worth it.

A how-to book for adding living space to your home for the care of aging parents. Practical Floor Plans with no wasted space lowers construction cost. Families are helped to avoid high cost elderly care facilities, whose fees range from $2,000 to $6,000 a month. It also includes tips for dealing with building departments, city codes, cost cutting ideas, and much more.

From the Publisher
The author shows great concern in helping family members fulfill their responsibility toward their aging parents and other relatives in a more inexpensive and natural way. Her Floor Plans are practical and designed to fit various needs of individuals. It's a One Of A Kind Book, with not only Floor plans, but also much needed information to aid in building and avoiding common problems. Carol and her husband live in one of the suites that she has designed. There was a lack of Good Floor Plans for this type of addition, motivating Carol to start designing for the various needs of people.
From the Author
The growing number of elderly above the age of 65, is causing a great demand for more affordable housing for seniors. Home care is becoming a popular choice for many families who are unable to cope with the high cost of assisted living. I especially recommend a self-contained suite to ensure more privacy and independence when possible.
