What do Mrs. Fields, Danielle Steel and Martha Stewart have in common? They all started businesses from home and turned them into multimillion dollar enterprises. You can do it too! Maybe you don't dream of baking incredible cookies, writing bestselling books, or teaching America how to throw a dinner party, but there are hundreds of goods and services the world is waiting for, and you can provide them right from your own home. The Stay-at-Home Entrepreneur presents 125 great ideas for making money and will inspire you to put your own special talents to work for unlimited profits. Here are valuable tips on getting started, making your business prosper, and joining the ranks of the millions who earn money while raising a family. Identify your talents and select the enterprise that makes the most of them. Organize your workspace for peak efficiency. Make the best use of available time. Arrange for necessary financing. Know the legal requirements of running your business. Get the word out to potential customers. Make your business grow. Select from the 125 ideas outlined here - from arts and crafts designer to high-style seamstress; personal trainer to dog breeder; Tarot reader to Internet researcher, and many other possibilities in the fields of food preparation, repairs, teaching, writing, advising, personal services, and more.
