Leah Chester-Davis, Toby Bost : The Successful Gardener Guide: North Carolina before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Successful Gardener Guide: North Carolina:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Just what I neededBy CustomerI moved to NC in 2015 after living in Colorado all my life. Tried picking flowers and plants on my own but found I had problems due to climate a season change issues. Dirt in NC is so much softer and workable than the rocks in Colo. It's more fertile too. I needed help so I ordered some books to help me. This one was just what I needed!!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy LCNice looking, well laid out, good size, lots of info. Glad to have the information.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Very nice bookBy Creative LadyThis was a used book but in excellent condition. The mailing arrived a lot sooner than expected. A nice surprise in mail order items. I found the contents very useful as I've just moved to NC from the fringed north and have a large yard to improve.

Eleven years ago, Leah Chester-Davis founded Extension's Successful Gardener, a newsletter published by the North Carolina Cooperative Extension to address the high demand for gardening information across the state. Toby Bost, extension agent and acclaimed garden-book author, joined her team. Together, they worked with horticulture experts statewide to deliver a top-quality gardening publication to North Carolinians. The newsletter has won numerous awards throughout the years, including the Garden Writers Association Award. The Successful Gardener Guide is a compilation of the best material from 10 years of research for the Extension's Successful Gardener newsletter. Novice and expert gardeners alike will find useful information in this book's six color-coded, easy to reference chapters. Readers can rely on the information in The Successful Gardener Guide as scientifically accurate and written for gardens in their region. Thousands of North Carolina gardeners have benefitted from the research of extension agents. Now, they have the best and most useful information in one accessible volume.

About the AuthorLeah Chester-Davis is the founding editor of Extension's Successful Gardener and has served as the newsletter's editor and team leader for 11 years. She is a communications specialist and coordinator of communications and community outreach for N.C. State University's MarketReady program at the North Carolina Research campus in Kannapolis. She is currently working on a biography of Dr. John L. Creech, world-famous plant hunter. She lives in Davidson, North Carolina. Toby Bost has been a popular garden writer for over 30 years. He served as assistant editor of Extension's Successful Gardener and is a consulting horticulturist and field faculty emeritus of N.C. State University's Cooperative Extension. He has published three gardening books, including The Carolina Gardener's Guide. Toby currently writes monthly garden features for Yadkin Valley Living magazine. He lives in Winston-Salem, North Carolina.
