Gill Heriz : Tiny Houses: Inspiring small spaces for tiny house living before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Tiny Houses: Inspiring small spaces for tiny house living:

Gill Heriz presents a collection of some of the most inspiring small homes in the USA and UK. People have been living small for centuries for reasons of practicality, mobility, flexibility, or personal choice. More recently, tiny homes have become the answer for many who need somewhere affordable to live and possess the creativity and energy to create something different. A small home can be relatively cheap to build or convert and give its owner choices; reflecting the way they want to live and their impact on the world. They can be stunningly beautiful and imaginative. They ask their owners to be discerning about what belongings they have what is necessity and what is beauty. The choices are individual and can be seen as part of a movement away from money and property slavery to a more simple and connected way of living. Gill Heriz has brought together a collection of some of the most incredible small homes, from containers in the city to cabins in the countryside. A traditional Mongolian yurt provides off-grid living for its owners, Firefly and Johann. A portable cabin offers a chic, flexible space for its owners, Anna and Ross. There is a reclusive shack set in a woodland, a converted mountainside bothy, and a log cabin pod near the coast.

About the Author Gill Heriz is an artist and writer who was once an interior designer, and has a passion for architecture and design. She is also self-confessedly nosy, and loves nothing more than exploring other people's houses. Her interest in small spaces was first sparked by some fine examples in her local area, and now extends across the world. Gill's first book published by CICO Books, A Woman's Shed, won the Gold in Home Garden at the 2014 Foreword's IndieFab awards. Gill is also the author of A Woman's Huts and Hideaways and lives in Suffolk, UK.
