Even though she's on the young side for this book's readership, she actually really enjoys it. I embellish the narrative a little by making it not only about the buildings but also about what might happen in the spaces, who might live there, and what the architects might have been like. Because the illustrations are so playful and engaging, it is easy to do this. Highly recommended if you want to nurture a little architecture buff!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. For all ages to enjoy.By Opera ManA nice book for children and adults who like the design elements of modern houses.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Who Built That? Modern Houses takes readers on a fun-filled tour through ten of the most important houses by the greatest architects of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. Beginning with a brief biographical sketch of each architect, illustrator Didier Cornille uses a light touch to depict the various stages of construction, paying special attention to key design innovations and signature details. Cornille's charming drawings and accessible text unlock the secrets of modern classic houses, ranging from Le Corbusier's Villa Savoye (1931) and Frank Lloyd Wright's Fallingwater (1939) to Shigeru Ban's Cardboard House (1995) and Rem Koolhaas's Bordeaux House (1998). Readers of all ages will delight in this colorful introduction to modern architecture's most extraordinary homes.

"Like Lego, Cornille's books provide the building blocks for the designers of tomorrow to imagine and redefine the houses and skyscrapers of the future." Look/BookAbout the AuthorDidier Cornille is a designer, illustrator, and professor at the cole des Beaux-Arts in Le Mans, France.
